Dr. Corey's Sensational Address the Topic of Interest.

A BIG STIR IN THE CHURCH

Expected to Defend His Orthodoxy at the Conference Meeting Yesterday, but Failed to Put in an Appearance-Dr. Baker's Remarks. Views of Rev. Alexander Bielaski.

The stir aroused by Dr. Corev's sen sational invective against church and bishop, at a recent meeting of the Southern Methodist Conference, augmented by the eloquent replies of Revs. Naylor and Leech, rendered the conference session yesterday morning at the Foundry Church one from which much was anticipated. For some time the impression was prevalent that the conference would take no action on the speech, but the measures adopted at the meeting last Monday at Kensington, the prolonging of the regular session a week further in order to hear Dr. Corey deliver himself again, together with the able replies just mentioned, show that the matter is one of far more importance than was at first allowed. The members assembled yesterday norming at 11 o'clock in anticipation of hearing Mr. Carey address them, but unfortunately he has not been in town this week, and, therefore, was unable to uttend A number of his friends had hoped for his presence, being confident of his ability to prove to the satisfaction of all his colleagues that his theology is as safe and firm as that of any member of the onference.

As this extra meeting had been called only for further action in his case, no business was transacted and only three addresses delivered.

The first of these was by Dr. H. Faker. He called for a more accurate definition of Christianity. What was meant by the expression in the first place? According to his views the conference had discussed the dogma+ of Christianity fostered by Dr. Corey rather than the main question. In the course of his speech he mentioned how near the Christianity of today ap-proached that of Christ's own time. How should the term be defined? Is it the life, promise, character and work of Christ and the promises in the Scripture If it is so to be defined the church today does actually represent the doctrines of Christianity. Probably no age had represented it better, and that it would continue to progress steadily as the years advanced

Rev. Lucien Clark, pastor of Foundry Church, followed Dr. Baker, after which Rev. Ames of the Deaconess' Home, spoke briefly.

The conference then adjourned until the third Monday in September, When its weekly session will be resumed. There is every indication that Dr. Corey has aroused ore excitement in the Methodist Church than has been done for many years. He is known to be an earnest worker, as well as a most capable minister, and his utterances are regarded as of weight. The discussion of his speech will be esumed this fall, and there are strong ndications that many of his assertions will be considered officially.

Dr. Alexander Belaski, paster of the Union M. E Church and secretary of the conference was seen today. "Dr. Corey has, in a measure, been misunderscood," he said. "The newspaper report of his speech did not do him credit. The account was not entire, and many of his remarks, quoted without their context, naturally appeared more sensational than they really were. I do not think that Dr. Corey meant to arouse any trouble. Nevertheless he has shown bimself but little bound by conservatism and has advanced some very radical views. In the end this speech may prove a great benefit to the Methodist church. We are steadily advancing in our scope, and there is more liberality of view and action than ever in our history. There is some slight trouble with the bishopry, however "The bishops at present, as well as from the founding of the church, take almost monarchical and even papal powers. Of course, when a man wields such an preme power he is apt to be a little carried away. For many years there has been grombling at this, and we will most likely touch upon it at our next meeting

Last Week at the Columbia.

Although the Columbia Stock announced ts season to close last Saturday night, there were so many requests, and of so evidently genuine character, to repeat Paulton's "Niobe," that the management de-cided the risk the adverse criticism usually engendered by prolongation of farewells and acceded to the request.

The audience present last night will rank as one of the largest of the season. Society, or what is left of it in town, seemed to be there, too. filling all the boxes and dressing the orchestra in unusual brilliancy. Mr. and Mrs. Keefer Held Up in Judiciary Square.

WITHOUT ANY PROVOCATION

Set Upon by Two Men and Viciously Pounded-Because the Victims Rode Wheels the Only Motive Known-The Lake Brothers Arrested for the Brutal Assault.

Judiciary Square was last night the scene of a most vicious and cowardly assault upon the wife of Mr Frederick B. Keefer, a well-known patent attorney, whose office is at No 501 F street, and who resides at the Harrison, No. 704 Third street northwest. Mr. Keefer himself was also badly beaten by his wife's assailants while attempting to defend her The assault was without the slightest muse or provocation. Mrs. Keefer is a pretty young woman and rides a bleycle. Last night about 9:30 o'clock, accompanied by her husband, she was wheeling dowly through the park in the vicinity of the Pension Office. Mrs. Keefer was a few feet in advance of her husband, and when nearing the Fifth street side of the park she met two men who had entered the square from F street, and though the drive is amply wide, she quietly turned out for thorn

As the lady was about to ride past the other man as if to emphasize the remark drew his umbrella and struck Mrs. Keefer several times severely on the back, and inflicting many painful bruises. Mrs Keefer cried aloud with fright and pain, and in the meantime ber husband had ridden up to her rescue. As Mr. Keefer dismounted from his wheel ne of the men approached him and said: "What have you got to say about it," and with a volley of vile oaths he rained blow after blow upon Mr. Keefer's head with the handle of his ombrella.

By this time Mrs. Keefer's assailant bad desisted from his attack upon her and turned his attention also to Mr. Keefer. who was doing his best to protect him self. Finally he managed to break away from his assailants and started in search of a policeman. As he did so the men hastened through the park, while Mrs. Keefer bravely started after them so that they should not get away. Park Policeman Tom. O'Neal was in the vicinity and came to the rescue, and burrying after the highwaymen captured and placed then under arrest.

Politeemen McNamecand Turner responded n snewer to the cries for help and the prisoners were turned over to them, and onducted to police headquarters where the story of the assault was related to betectives Norue and Weedon. Both men were well dressed and of good appearance At first they told the detectives that they were only causual acquaintances, having met about an hour before for the first time, but finally admitted after close questioning that they were brothers, Ashton Lake and E. E. Lake. Both had een drinking, but neither was intoxicated. They were locked up last night in No. 6 station on the charge of assault.

Ashton Lake is a clerk at Perry's dry goods store, at Ninth street and Pennsyl canla avenue, and his brother, Edward E. is the proprietor of a grocery store, at No 446 H street northwest Both men reside it No. 126 E street northwest The motive for the assault is not known
